Presently the University offers 86 academic programmes (UG/PG/Research)

About the Conference

TLASH 2.0, hosted by GD Goenka University, will build on the success of TLASH 2024 to further explore the role of higher education institutions in advancing Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The conference will bring together scholars, policymakers, and industry leaders to discuss innovative strategies for integrating SDGs into education, research, and institutional policies. Through meaningful deliberations by SMEs, panel discussions, poster presentations, and research presentations, TLASH 2.0 aims to showcase best practices, strengthen global collaborations, and address emerging challenges in sustainability. With a strong focus on actionable solutions, this event will serve as a platform for meaningful dialogue and transformative initiatives in higher education.

Objectives

- To further the transformative potential of SDGs and the role of HEIs in achieving them.
- To showcase successful initiatives and best practices by HEIs in integrating SDGs into their teaching, research, and community engagement activities.
- To foster collaboration and partnerships between HEIs, governments, the private sector, and civil society organizations to accelerate progress towards the SDGs.
- To identify challenges and opportunities in mainstreaming SDGs within higher education.
- To develop recommendations for a comprehensive action plan for HEIs to contribute effectively to the 2030 Agenda.
